Introduction to Quality Enhancement Cell

Quality Enhancement Cell (QEC)

Quality Enhancement Cells serve as focal points for quality assurance in the institutions in order to improve and uphold the quality of higher education. Capacity building of academia in quality assurance is one of the key functions of Quality Assurance Agency (QAA) and subsequently of QEC. Thus, QAA and QECs of the Universities will work hand in hand to move in this direction of capacity building arrangements that include awareness campaigns, development of quality assurance policy instruments, training to learn the processes and procedures of quality assurance in higher education institutions and development of Manual to equip the practitioners of quality assurance.

The QAA and QECs at higher education institutions will undertake their responsibilities and functions based on the best principles of quality assurance namely openness, transparency, fairness, equity and accountability as practiced in the rest of the world.

On up gradation of Rawalpindi Medical College to Rawalpindi Medical University on 5th May, 2017, one of the first goals that were set and achieved, was the establishment of Quality enhancement cell (QEC) which acts as the backbone of all the academic developments in a university by providing constant monitoring and quality control of the teaching and learning activities. It was established in January, 2018 by the executive orders (office orders attached in annexure A). Function of QEC is to maintain the standards and quality of:

- Training programs
- Examinations
- Inductions
- All academic activities
